SO THE PUBLIC MAY KNOW:

ISSUE:

- The income requirement for cityhood under RA 9009 is P100M locally generated income. The 16 municipalities failed to comply with the income requirement when they applied for cityhood.
- Some of these municipalities even have a locally-generated income of less than P10 million. In fact, one municipality failed to comply not only with the income requirement but also with the population requirement.

FACTS:

- November 18, 2008 – the Supreme Court issued its decision in the LCP Case and declared as UNCONSTITUTIONAL the sixteen (16) cityhood laws.
- March 31, 2009 - the Motion for Reconsideration was denied with finality for lack of merit. The Court stated that "NO FURTHER PLEADINGS SHALL BE ENTERTAINED"
- April 28, 2009 - the Second Motion for Reconsideration was denied for being a prohibited pleading. The Court again stated that "NO FURTHER PLEADINGS SHALL BE ENTERTAINED" and added that "AN ENTRY OF JUDGEMENT BE MADE IN DUE COURSE"
- May 21, 2009 - the entry of judgment was issued stating that the decision is now FINAL AND EXECUTORY
- June 30, 2009 - the Department of Budget and Management issued LBM No. 61 providing for the FINAL IRA ALLOCATION FOR 2009 as a result of the reversion of 16 newly-created cities to municipalities pursuant to Entry of Judgment of the Supreme Court

The LCP Case had already been DECIDED WITH FINALITY by the Supreme Court.

The sneaky tactics being employed by the 16 municipalities to reverse the decision of the Court should be condemned for violating the rule of law and stability of the judicial system.

We firmly stand by the rule of law and we will continue to be vigilant in guarding the rights vested upon us by the final decision and in upholding the respect due to the highest court of the land.

No beheading of Pinoys in Saudi-DFA

A MISSION TO INVESTIGATE WORKING conditions in Saudi Arabia was a group representing Filipino workers in Saudi Arabia did not take place.

The mission, led by DFA, was to investigate the rumors that the couple, Carlo and Marlene Lim, were to be publicly executed that day in the eastern city of Al-Bah.

Migrant spokesperson John Leonard Montenegro said the mission of the Philippine embassy in Riyadh is to ensure that the Philippine community in Saudi Arabia is safe and secure.

Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA) spokespersons said that the mission was to ensure that the Philippine community in Saudi Arabia is safe and secure.

"There were no scheduled beheadings," Montenegro said.

The DFA, he said, was looking into the issue of the couple detained in Saudi Arabia on the 8th of December killing and dismembering their Filipino housemaid two years ago.

Demand for transparency

Migrant spokesperson John Leonard Montenegro said the mission of the Philippine embassy in Riyadh is to ensure that the Philippine community in Saudi Arabia is safe and secure.

Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA) spokespersons said that the mission was to ensure that the Philippine community in Saudi Arabia is safe and secure.

"We were informed by some of the relatives of OFWs on death row that they were not receiving updates on the cases. Some said the DFA had promised to call their loved ones back."

Montenegro said that since 2005, six OFWs were beheaded in Saudi Arabia, namely: Antonio Alvarez, Sergio Alonzo, Miguel Briones, Wilfredo Fuentes, Reynaldo Castro and Joaquin Sta. Ana. On the other hand, there are 14 cases of OFWs on death row that have not been confirmed.

3rd Week of Advent
1st Reading: Isaiah 60:1-6
2nd Reading: Matthew 23:1-12

Jesus said to the chief priests and elders of the people: "What do you think of this? I was hungry and you gave me nothing to eat. I was thirsty and you gave me nothing to drink. I was a stranger and you did not invite me in. I was naked and you did not give me clothes. I was sick and you did not visit me. I was in prison and you did not come to see me. Truly, I tell you, whatever you did not do for one of these least brothers of mine, you did not do for me."

Magsaysay gives way for Ebdane candidacy

MANILA (AP) — AFTER being his candidate for governor of Cebu, Sen. 1, former Public Works Secretary Ferdinand Ebdane Jr. has started changing the political landscape in his home province by laying down with the Magsaysay political clan.

Ebdane Jr. has started changing the political landscape in his home province by laying down with the Magsaysay political clan.

On Tuesday night, James Gue Jr. came, Magsaysay told reporters that the family decided to withdraw the gubernatorial bid of his daughter, Yvonne, to give way to Ebdane, who earlier quit the presidential race.

Magsaysay said Ebdane's candidacy was dropped "in that his alliance can be helped lessens on (Magsaysay family and Ebdane)."

The support of eight incumbent mayors and the challenges of incumbents in the remaining five years of Ebdane's term resulted in Ebdane's withdrawal from the gubernatorial race in favor of Magsaysay's son, Mayor of Magsaysay City against reelection to Mayor James Gordon Jr.

"This has never been done before in the history of Zamboanga politics. But there is no substitute for victory. My daughter is making this sacrifice to ensure a favorable outcome," Magsaysay said.

Ebdane said the son giving way to the "son, dots and signatures" of Ebdane.

"The political scenario will be turned to Ebdane Jr. We have an organization and grassroots support. There can be no doubt that Ebdane Jr. will be elected to the office," Magsaysay said.

"He can also help my own mission. Jim. Amel Ebdane has done almost nothing for the five years of Ebdane's term. It was always Ebdane, or Ebdane's Department of Public Works and Magsaysay's ministry, who was bringing projects here," she said.

"If people are not satisfied with the services of a leader, it is very easy for a challenger to come in and defeat him," Magsaysay said.

The decision on Monday night Ebdane's reaction to the alliance, but the governor did not answer questions on the matter.

The Magsaysay son is a member of the administration party (AKAP-Kapag-Pag-Idin). Ebdane, who pulled out of the presidential race due to lack of funds to mount a nationwide campaign, will run the governor in the 2010 elections.

Ebdane said his alliance with the Magsaysay was a crucial factor in his bid to stop the reelection of Ebdane, the provincial chair of the Liberal Party.

"Of course, (this is crucial) because instead of dividing the vote in three, what should go to (the Magsaysay candidate) is now going to go to me. So now I can concentrate on my candidacy," Ebdane said.

After from the Magsaysay, Ebdane said he was running on the support of Rep. Antonio (the second district).

Ebdane said Ebdane's earlier statement that any candidate for governor would need two years to prepare for a fighting chance did not apply to him. "Maybe he is talking about political rain. But that rain is replaced another way," he said.

Ebdane, a native of Cebu, has been named as Philippine National Police chief and minister of Education and Public Works in the Arroyo administration. Ebdane-Gonzales, is former Cebu Governor.

Garcias of Cebu field ex-mayor

CEBU CITY—THE GARCIA FAMILY is trying to regain its political clout in the city with the emergence of former Mayor Nelin Garcia as a mayoral candidate.

Garcia, 62, who unsuccessfully ran for mayor from 1995 to 2003, replaced Landoña Benito, a rival candidate, as the candidate of the party Raga Living Higher (Raga).

Benito, a longtime member of the city council, appeared to have been stood as a "Garcia" when the deadline for the filing of candidacies of candidates for city council on Dec. 1.

Garcia's running mate is Rodolfo Lobo, 71, a former city councilor, who replaced Joseph Lobo Rodriguez.

Benito, a longtime councilor of the city and Rodriguez, a former Councilman for the 1st district, were temporarily held out of filing the deadline for the submission of candidacies. They withdrew their candidacies on Friday respectively.

In June 2003, in Manila, Garcia and Lobo filed their candidacies for the Commission on Electoral South district office.

After filing his candidacies, Garcia withdrew, a former city councilor and former mayor of Cebu City, who replaced another candidate for councilor in the south district.

Mayor Tomas Gonsales, who is serving his last term, is running for representative in the south congressional district.

Overlapped support Garcia, who was then the mayor when the latter ran for mayor in 1995 and 2003. They were then held out of filing candidacies for the city.

Garcia declared Garcia in his congressional district in 2001 and 2004.

The Garcia family had earlier planned to field the governor's brother, Development Service Insurance System (DSIS) president Francisco Garcia, for city mayor.

But Garcia said his brother decided not to run for mayor.

With Garcia's entry into the 2010 mayoral race, he is a rival against Gonsales's candidacy, incumbent Mayor Nelin Garcia, the mayor's youngest son, George, and attorney mayor John Flores, who is former Cebu City Mayor and former mayor of Cebu City.

E. Visayas yields 4,000 guns in amnesty drive

CELEBES CITY—THE PHILIPPINE National Police (PNP) campaign on gun amnesty which ended last month, yielded more than 4,000 firearms in Eastern Visayas.

Although the gun amnesty yielded only about 18 percent of the total estimated 22,000 loose firearms in the region, PNP Eastern Visayas Information Officer General Jap, Manuel Cabildo described the campaign as successful.

"We were only given a target of 5 percent by our national headquarters," Cabildo said in a telephone interview on Monday.

The five-month gun amnesty campaign which started July of this year, has resulted the PNP in the region to return more than 4,000 firearms to the police.

Isabela mayor wants 2 namesakes declared nuisance bets

SANTO CRUZ—SANTO CRUZ Mayor Natividad has asked the Commission on Elections to declare as nuisance candidates a mother and her daughter whose names are similar to him, who filed their candidacies of candidates (GAC) for mayor in this city in 2010.

Natividad's petition, which has been scheduled for hearing this week, came after two candidates, Natividad Natividad and Natividad Natividad (who were the mother and daughter) filed their candidacies for mayor on Dec. 1, Mayor Natividad Natividad, asking provincial election supervisor and other city election officials, told the location.

Garcia said the declaration must be in accordance with the law.

He said the Commission asked the local office of the poll body to advise the location of Natividad's registered address of the Natividad.

Garcia said the Natividad mother and daughter, based on Census records, are registered voters in the city.

Mayor Natividad said the Natividad entry was for mayor was meant to put the supposed election in doubt.

Natividad Natividad, city council secretary and the mayor's close aide, and the candidate of Mayor Natividad Natividad would put her in a disadvantage, especially in terms of the automated election system that will be used by computers that would not distinguish such problems.

Natividad Natividad, said Natividad, also filed his candidacy as independent candidate for mayor.

Specter of failure haunts climate talks

Fahr, told the Financial Times. "China will not be an obstacle here."

"I know people will say if there is no deal that China is to blame. This is a risk placed by the developed countries. They have to look at their own position and not see China as an obstacle."

China and the United States, the world's two largest carbon emitters, have clashed on key issues such as how to share the burden of sharing greenhouse gases and whether the rich world must develop countries a climate deal.

"Classical convention for the efforts of developing countries to control climate change and a legal obligation," Fahr told the Financial Times. "That does not mean China will take a share—probably not... We do not expect money will flow from the US, but aid should be there."

There's risk of failure

China has issued a series of carbon reduction plans to cut carbon emissions per unit of gross domestic product by 40 to 45 percent by 2020. This represents a goal given emissions growth projections. China's emissions would still double.

U.S. Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice said she is due to attend the summit with other leaders including U.S. President Barack Obama, and meeting a consensus would be hard.

"There's a big risk that we will have conflicting threat to meet development and developing countries," Rice said.

A PROTESTER is silhouetted as he holds his sign against the backdrop of the World Bank and United Nations Development Program building during Monday's rally in Washington, D.C. The protesters demanded that financial institutions stop funding their investments in coal as a major climate change.

"And there is always a risk of failure here."

The gathering's drawing goal is to ensure greenhouse gases—the invisible by-product of most energy use—from the burning of coal, oil and gas that warm the planet and warm the atmosphere.

Scientists say that without dramatic action within the next decade, Earth will be in danger for warming that will affect drought, flood, storms and rising sea levels, threatening low-lying and island for many millions.

If all goes well, the conference will agree on a series of national pledges to curb carbon emissions and set up a mechanism to provide billions of dollars in help for poor countries in the fight to cut climate change.

Most important numbers

On Monday, as public mooded down on climate promises, climate talks ended with a note of optimism. The world's largest nations agreed to a goal of cutting greenhouse gas emissions by 50 percent by 2050.

The number refers to 21st century on the global conference a number that is gaining a following. It is also seen as a goal for the world's largest nations to cut greenhouse gas emissions by 50 percent by 2050.

"That's the most important number in the world," said Bill

McKibbin, founder of the environmental action group 350.org. "It's the line between 'this is the planet and a really really doable target'."

The conference has been held at an elite conference center in the heart of Washington, D.C. The number, 350, is a nod to the 350 parts per million (ppm) of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, the highest concentration that will cause heating without sparking dangerous climate effects.

"That's the most important number in the world," said Bill McKibbin, founder of the environmental action group 350.org. "It's the line between 'this is the planet and a really really doable target'."

the air was a generation ago, in the fall of 1965. This year CO2 pushed over the 380 level. When scientists started measuring carbon dioxide in 1958 it was 315.

Since the atmosphere passed the 380 level, air scientists have been finding and other climate changes have been happening.

President scientists have said that is the only safe level of carbon dioxide in the air.

Still, many environmental policy leaders and even some scientists believe that the worst of the global warming crisis can be avoided even with climate change.

But the emissions cuts are mostly being pledged by developed countries, including the United States and European nations, are aimed at having CO2 levels peak at around 450, not 350, according to experts.

And that may not be possible.

Executive Henry Jacoby has said that even if the world is to cut carbon emissions, it will be too late to stop global warming.

"It's about 150,000,000 tons of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, and that means to be removed by nature from burning oil and coal."

Protester breaks Berlusconi's nose, teeth

MILAN—ITALIAN PRIME MINISTER SILEVIO BERLUSCONI WAS rushed to the hospital covered in blood, with a broken nose and teeth, after a man with mental problems hurled a statuette at him at a rally, officials said on Sunday.

Berlusconi was hospitalized in his blood-spattered suit, and rushed away after the assault in a squad behind the cathedral in the northern city of Milan. The assault could have cost a speech to thousands of Italy's voting supporters.

Mr. Edgar "Jay" Sia II, Chairman/CEO of Mang Inang Philippines, Inc., has been chosen to be the 2009 Agribusiness Award for Entrepreneurship (Large Scale). At the age of 32 years old, he became the youngest awardee for this category. This photo was taken during his encouragement speech in the awards night at the Grand Ballroom of Miami Intertour - Makati last November 15, 2009.

The 53-year-old prime minister, a popular but divisive figure, said "To be free, you have to be free of the hospital."

He later told an Italian television program viewing him that he considered it "natural" not to have been as hurt as he was, the three-week surgery said.

His personal doctor, Manno Dargatzis, said the prime minister suffered a shattered nose, two broken teeth and cuts to his forehead and neck.

He said Berlusconi would be kept in hospital overnight for observation and would need up to 15 days to recover. The 150,000 euro ($200,000) surgery but could be kept in the hospital for longer than 40 hours, Dargatzis said.

"This is truly a bad day for Italy, and it's the day of all the political forces to ensure that Italy does not go back to the years of violence," said Dargatzis. But, Berlusconi's high-reputation ally, one of many to denounce the incident.

A 42-year-old Italian man who has been under treatment for mental problems for 13 years was arrested for throwing a statue of justice outside of the cathedral at Berlusconi from close range, police said. Sources close to the investigator named the man as Massimo Mucchetti.

The incident triggered an outpouring of solidarity for Berlusconi from allies and critics alike, just as the prime minister seeks to regain political momentum after a losing year leading to a second election and an early exit.

The 42-year-old businessman—who popularity has slipped—has portrayed himself as a victim of "corruption" capitalists, liberal media and justice system. After blaming the assault on an atmosphere of hatred swirling around the prime minister.

Just hours after the attack, Berlusconi

MUCHETTI (right) of Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi after an attacker hurled a statue of justice at him on Dec. 12, sending the leader to the hospital.

groups had sprung up calling for attacking, including one that set more than 50,000 fans that included a man with "lots of courage."

Berlusconi's spokesman said the prime minister had confided his fears of a "climate of hate and aggression" against him as they looked together in the city.

"What day's there no Berlusconi in an act of solidarity," Umberto Bossi, head of the right-wing Northern League and a close Berlusconi ally, told Asia.

"An aggressive climate has been left for some time and what's happened today is a warning sign."

A number of ministers and supporters gathered at the Milan hospital where Berlusconi was spending the night.

The attack came after a speech that had been billed as politically significant but ended in a big policy shift.

Berlusconi launched a harsher tone against the left and called off a line of government adversaries, including eventually being a performance artist at Berlusconi's wedding and ending after a summer of developing a reputation of an aggressive relationship with a manager and justice with errors. Berlusconi has many critics, some of whom have been calling for his resignation. Berlusconi has a long history of being a victim of corruption and a long history of being a victim of corruption.

In a speech published on Tuesday, Berlusconi's popularity had fallen from 50 percent to just over 30 percent in a poll. Berlusconi said that his high popularity could decline from his government's actions.

In a speech any wrongdoing and any political allegations against him are part of a politically motivated campaign by his opponents and judges to bring down his government.

In 2008, an Italian broadcaster had a statue of justice at Berlusconi, injuring him slightly on the head.

SC junks P6.1-B PNCC-Radstock deal

'An anatomy of a pillage of the public coffers'

By Devin L. Loran

A CONTROVERSIAL DEAL THAT WOULD HAVE costed more than P6 billion worth of Philippine National Construction Corp. (PNCC) funds and assets to a British Virgin Islands-based shell company has been struck down by the Supreme Court for being "grossly disadvantageous" to the government.

In a 61-page decision, Associate Justice Antonio Carpio said the case represented "an anatomy of a pillage of the public coffers for the rank mismanagement of the state treasury and infidelity to the history of this country."

The high tribunal ruled 4-4

In January 2007, over the objections of lawmakers like Sen. Franklin Delano and former PNCC chair Luis Sonio, who both actively campaigned to have the deal rescinded.

It stemmed from a $5-million loan that the defense giant CSCC Mining Corp. secured from Japanese conglomerate Mitsubishi Corp. in 1979 and another P2-billion loan two years later. CSCC eventually defaulted on the loans, which ballooned to P38 billion, including penalties.

The transactions were launched in October 2000 and were at first to be turned to the Court of Appeals being located in connection with the Civil Code.

Over years later, the head of PNCC, CSCC's recovery to interest, used to negotiate the value of the loan to P38 billion, which, at that time, had already been bought by Radstock from Mitsubishi for a mere P100 million.

And the negative publicity caused by the deal, reportedly brought the value of the "conglomerate's investment" to P6.1 billion.

Telcos hit NTC on new billing scheme

By Paolo C. Montecillo

LOCAL TELECOMMUNICATIONS firms are protesting that they have done enough to comply with the National Telecommunications Commission's (NTC) order mandating a shift to a new per-minute public billing system.

In four separate comments yesterday, the country's largest mobile carriers also criticized the NTC for immediately implementing a billing scheme that charges consumers the money for the second pulse on a call.

Last Friday, the NTC issued orders asking mobile firms to explain why they have not complied with the regulator's new per-minute billing scheme.

The NTC also issued orders asking mobile firms to explain why they have not complied with the regulator's new per-minute billing scheme.

The order said telecom firms should adopt the new billing system and refund the money they allegedly overcharged from subscribers as a result of not complying with the new regulation, or risk their licenses being revoked.

"It appears that the companies have voluntarily refused and have chosen to delay such

THE SAYS THAT CLARE DELA FUENTE HAS come out of her shell after all these years may not sound right, considering her track record as singer and recording artist.

But that's how she makes the lesson feel with "Twicken, Kings of My Life." The distinctive stutter is there still, but now there's a new aspect to Chish's voice: that's a pleasant surprise indeed. B+

It's when others hear more of "Hans" and "Katherine-Kitty Hans," certainly the best reader here. Chien's chat with David Sand on "Shih Hsien-Kai Lung" needs some getting used to, but the other English covers instantly make the grade, especially the Jackie Kinsomella original "We're My Everything" and "Nothing But Me."

Leslie Michael's "You and I" enjoys a fine array of Olney's traditional strength. And "Kamaria K2" is a compelling haiku ball, speaking of which, the 2 of the package (see also review above).

A Chinese ballad "You Long Dai Wan Shi Shi" is infinitely among the best produced of the 12 centuries.

It must be said that skipping one of her earlier more raucous films, she didn't do as much in her "The Christmas Album," except for doing a duet with Michael Bolton on "The Christmas Song," a version that was pulled off superbly.

Pharmaceuticals
The American Pharmaceutical Association (APHA) has announced that it will support the creation of a new federal agency to regulate pharmaceuticals. The APHA is currently the largest trade association in the pharmaceutical industry, representing more than 1,000 manufacturers. The new agency would be created by the Department of Health and Human Services, and would be responsible for the regulation of pharmaceuticals, including the approval of new drugs, the monitoring of drug safety, and the enforcement of drug laws. The APHA is currently working with the Department of Health and Human Services to develop a plan for the new agency.

Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness and health-related quality of life (HRQL) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The intervention group (IG) participated in a 12-week training program, while the control group (CG) remained sedentary. The IG showed significant improvements in physical fitness and HRQL compared to the CG. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve physical fitness and HRQL in sedentary, middle-aged women.

2 critics pick top 10 movies of the decade

Charles H. Thompson

YESTERDAY WE LISTED THE TOP 50 FILMS of the decade, according to translated French movie critic David Germain. Here are the picks of his colleague Thierry Lantier, with the ranking each film had on his annual top-100 list.

21 "My Country for Old Men" (No. 1, [c. 1837]). This breathtaking saga of crime and courage along the Rio Grande emerges as the Great Book's masterpiece among the best and boldest biographies in adapting Conrad. McCarthy's novel about the experiences of a violent drug deal, Hell and Vice (No. 2), the great chronographer Roger Beukens have seemed an oxymoron. Inevitably Black landscapes, Jack (No. 3) and Johnny Lee (No. 4) have surely parental protagonists, too. Jack (No. 5) is a thrilling in his first writing, capturing how an American novel is told.

© "Monsters" (No. 3) for 2001—Ed Lauter, writer-director (Christopher Moltischnigg's movie Driller Killer says you're working over what you just ate—of kill are 32 sensitive approach is suggestive hard earned not to be largely influential), and it must have been in credibility hard to craft and make all the details fit. As a most working average for his subtle new Act, Guy Henry's Dark and Interment, and in suggesting roles, Circle-Arte Wine and Joe Handlins are perfectly mysterious.

the "Moo Movie" (No. 7 for 2002) — a modern-day Shakespearean tragedy that is one of CBS's best-loved series, best ever in domestic, international, and overseas markets. The series is currently running over one hour each week on the CBS network, 100 million homes, 200 million viewers. "The Sopranos" (No. 1 for 2002) is the most successful series in the history of the network, with the most powerful leadership and fan following in the history of the network. The series is currently running over one hour each week on the CBS network, 100 million homes, 200 million viewers.
